

when they do get them - that they are no longer physically as fit and robust as our youth used to be. (This is the brave nation that, half a century ago, stood alone against Hitler and dared him to do his worst).

With regard to the effects of drugs, there have recently been alarming cases (for example in Cyprus) of civilians being battered or murdered by members of the British Armed Forces. First it was our football louts, now it is our troops. No wonder that there is so little respect for us, and that our prestige is not precisely what it used to be! Our nation were once proud to call themselves British, and proud of this little country's quite amazing heritage and its stupendous achievements, not only in the fields of art and science and invention, but also in the administration of a far-flung, global empire that stands without its like in the history of the world and for which we have every reason to be proud.

Having gone down so far and so unbelievably fast, it would be foolish for any of us to imagine that the process will be halted. It must now continue to its logical end.

Meanwhile, those few who know "what to look out for", and "what to expect" in these times that are now upon us, will perhaps be wise to take extra-careful note of the current volcanic eruption on the little island of Montserrat in the British West Indies. One might wish to disregard such an event as trivial, as a "feather in the wind", as nothing but "a tiny cloud on the horizon". However, it is not. Those who are aware of the extraordinary relationship that exists between the "inner state" of mankind and the "inner state" of his Home Planet, will perceive the very special meaning of this particular event in this particular part of the globe at this particular time. DO FLYING TRIANGLES HAVE UNDERWATER BASES?

Readers may not generally appreciate that we are now in the throes of what is almost a 'Flying Triangle' invasion. After something of an inauspicious arrival in the State of Missouri on the 18th November 1980, The FTs are being reported in increasing numbers world-wide.

Their arrival in Missouri and Kansas in 1980 caused consternation and awe, as hundreds of witnesses, including policemen, watched a huge craft, displaying a triangular pattern of lights, move slowly over the countryside for a period of four hours. It was seen over 22 towns and at one stage the huge craft appeared to be dropping what a local truck driver described as 'satellites', which appeared to be round and emitted a bluish glow.

The whole event was tracked on radar during the four hour period and must rate as one of the most awesome sightings to date. One witness describing the FT as being "as big as a football field." This then, was a portent of what was to come!

During January 1981 a huge boomerange-shaped craft was seen over Arizona, with one witness proclaiming that the object "was bigger than several football fields!" The 'V'-shaped craft were later reported over New York State and Connecticut in March 1983. Once again the craft was described as being "as big as two football fields" and, this time, the craft flashed its lights on and off, as though trying to attract attention.

Later came the 'Belgian Flap,' when huge triangular craft visited this small country during the period 1989/90. The SOBEPs Group (Société Belge d'Etudes des Phénomènes Spatiaux), were inundated with hundreds of reports during this period. Such was the efficiency of their organisation, that at one stage the Belgian Air Force asked for their co-operation and assistance! With SOBEPs members being widespread throughout the country, they were in a far better position to spot and report 'events' in their locality than the Belgian Air Force. It seems that SOBEPs acted in a similar way to the U.K's 'Royal Observer Corps' and at one stage had two F16 interceptor fighters placed at their disposal! This resulted in the F16s intercepting the 'Flying Triangles,' although they were completely unable to match the speed and manoeuvrability of the FTs, as subsequent cockpit radar film footage showed.

On the 26th September 1993 a huge 'Flying

Triangle' craft arrived over Bakewell in Derbyshire. Although there had been isolated reports over the U.K. prior to this event, it gave an indication of what we could expect in the near future.

On the night of the 26th September, the residents of Bakewell were treated to the sight of a huge black silent craft flying slowly over their town. With a bright white light on each corner of its triangular shape and numerous smaller lights running along the edges of the craft, it flew very low and at a speed of only 30 mph. (a witness driving his vehicle at 40 mph overtook it!) The FT craft then performed several slow manoeuvres over the town before returning to its original course and flying slowly out of sight. Just over three months later a British Airways passenger aircraft was 'buzzed' by a glowing triangular craft as it approached Manchester Airport!

The Flying Triangles then began to arrive in force, with 52 FT incidents being recorded in and around Derby from December 1994 to May 1995. This included FT craft hovering at night and shining down white beams of light onto the countryside.

Lights of this nature have been reported on numerous occasions, but it seems highly unlikely that they are a 'searchlight' as such. One can hardly imagine the Aliens peering through portholes under their craft and looking at the illuminated countryside. Our own present day satellites are capable of 'looking' down at the ground below, with the aid of new radar technology. Therefore the purpose of the FT 'searchlight' beam must be something else, but what? Witnesses have spoken of the FTs' white beam of light as sometimes "ending in mid-air, like a fluorescent tube."

As the number of FT reports have increased, a pattern has begun to emerge. The FT craft appear to be coming in over the East Coast of England and flying slowly across the countryside to various destinations before returning back out to sea a few hours later.

The latest information from the Essex UFO Research group under the able leadership of Ron West, (operating under Project FT co-ordinated by Victor J. Kean), states that since 1995, there have been reports of FT craft being seen entering and leaving the sea off the east coast, near Lowestoft. There have also been some 25 reports of lights seen moving under the surface of the sea in the same area. Could the FTs have an undersea base in this area? Certainly similar underwater activity has been reported from various parts of the world. One startling coincidence has recently come to light and that is a number of references made to the subject of underwater bases by Larry Warren in his book 'Left at East Gate.'

The book deals primarily with the UFO incident in Rendlesham Forest, which took place in late December 1980, but Larry Warren then goes on to reveal a further event. It appears that after the Rendlesham Forest incident, he got himself into 'hot water' by telephoning his mother about the UFO landing. He was subsequently ordered to go to a certain parking lot on the base where he would be met by a dark blue sedan car. Larry subsequently arrived at the parking lot, saw the car and as he entered into the vehicle, he remembered a greenish glow and then, by all accounts, lost consciousness. He later recovered to find himself in an underground complex under the Woodbridge base, where he learnt from a black uniformed guard that it was part of a tunnel complex that led to the North Sea (p.61). Larry Warren was then taken into a strange darkened glass room, where he was contacted by a telepathic alien figure, partly hidden by a glowing screen. Larry then learnt that he was in an underground complex that had been built in the 1940s. The complex contained many aliens, with their human support personnel. Larry went on to state "The craft they travelled in entered and exited via an extensive tunnel system. One exit was a mile off Lowestoft, Suffolk, and another near Orford Key." (p.62)

If Larry's encounter with the alien is true and not an hallucination, could it mean that the aliens are controlling the 'Flying Triangle' craft that have been reported disappearing into the sea off Lowestoft? But do the facts add up?

Lowestoft is some 30 miles up the coast from the Woodbridge area; however Orford Key is only some 8 miles from the Woodbridge base. It seems unlikely that building a tunnel complex from Woodbridge to Lowestoft, (a project equal to the building of the Channel Tunnel) could have been undertaken in total secrecy. However the Orford Key project is more feasible and is within the realms of possibility.

Is there an underground base at the Air Force base at Woodbridge and does it have tunnels leading to the North Sea? Larry Warren claims that it does.

If 'Left at East Gate' is a factual account of what happened to Larry Warren, then the implications of his story are inconceivable. Are the aliens here and if they are, what are they up to? Will we ever know the truth?■

MANY THINK BIBLE EXPLAINS ALIEN ABDUCTION. Even Some MUFON Researchers See "Spiritual Warfare".

[The following text is excerpted from an article in Florida Today, dated August 17, written by Rita Elkins. CNI News. Thanks, Stig Agermose, for sending us this item. Go to <http://www.flatoday.com:80/space/to-day/081797b.htm> for the full text.]

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. - Religious leaders are alarmed about a growing train of thought that "wants us to reject traditional Judeo-Christian ideas about God" in favor of benign "Space Brothers" who will save humanity from itself, writes journalist William M. Alnor in his book, "UFOs in the New Age" (Baker, Grand Rapids, Mich.).

Alnor concludes this new belief is a set-up for apocalyptic deceptions predicted in the Bible's Book of Revelation. He's not alone.

Magazine articles, books and even evangelists are engaging in Bible-based speculations about the nature and intention of entities that allegedly kidnap, paralyze, physically abuse and sometimes sexually molest victims — many of whom come to believe the experience was worthwhile.

"The similarity between the abduction experience and demonic possession is very, very close," says Joe Jordan, Brevard/Volusia State [section] Director for the Mutual UFO Network (MUFON). "These experiences these people are having are real. It does exist. But you just need to understand what's doing it."

Jordan and his partner, Wes Clark, have begun a research group called CE-4 (close encounters of the fourth kind), dedicated to studying alleged alien abductions. Its 15 members also belong to MUFON, but "nothing we do is necessarily sanctioned by [MUFON leadership]," says Clark, a quality control engineer at Kennedy Space Center.

Jordan, who works in product development and engineering for Sea Ray Boats, speaks calmly, his voice firm. Kooks don't get to be State [section] directors with science-oriented MUFON. "This whole thing is spiritual warfare. And the method the enemy's using is deception. Strong deception."

Last year he focused on CE-4 research, and encountered a Central Florida abductee whose otherwise-typical experience had one unique aspect. "They had stopped the experience while it was happening. In all the time I've been researching, I'd never heard that before."

Jordan and Clark swear they have three verifiable cases in which apparent abduction experiences were halted by believers who called on the name of Jesus. And Jordan says as many as 400 cases may be documentable nationwide.

"It makes you wonder: If these beings are extraterrestrial at all, why would they respond to that name?" Jordan asks. "We think we found the answer in the Bible, in Mark 16:17 where Jesus said, 'In my name, they shall cast out demons.' That seems to be exactly what we came across."

Suddenly, the religious press is full of articles about UFOs.

The May cover story in Central Florida's Discovery Christian newspaper focused on UFOlogy theology, interviewing Berkeley-trained scientist and Christian author John Weldon.

July's Charisma magazine, a 200,000-plus circulation monthly, featured Christian evangelist and author Paul McGuire's article, Alien Invaders.

McGuire cites the evolution of author Whitley Streiber — from his first alien contacts in Communion, Transformation and Breakthrough to his latest titles, The Secret School: Preparations for Contact and Evenings with Demons — as an example of a progressive deception.

"Both the seemingly benign and the hostile entities... will play an increasing role in preparing a segment of humanity for the reception of the Antichrist," write bestselling authors David Allen Lewis and Robert Shreckhise in UFO: End-Time Delusion (New Leaf Press, 1991).

The cover of The Agenda: The Real Reason They're Here gives this premise: "In the near future, God will evacuate millions of people from the horrors to follow. Aliens will take the credit" for the Rapture, writes B. Fox, a MUFON researcher who resides in — of all places — Roswell, New Mexico.

Back in Titusville at the CE-4 office in Wes Clark's home, Joe Jordan and Clark continue to study, research and solicit abductees through the Internet and with classified ads in MUFON's UFO Journal.

"The one thing we can offer people in this field is hope. Hope that they can stop this experience," Jordan says.
